Campaign to Remove 300- Mile Long Island as Key Japanese Base Is Stepped Up

RABAU IS HAMMERED

By MORRIS LANDSBERG

Associated Press War Editor

By land and by air, Allied forces stepped up the pressure in the campaign to remove 300-mile long New Britain as the key Japanese base in the southwest Pacific.

While U. S. marines routed enemy remnants in the Borgen Bay area on the island's western tip, warplanes from the South Pacific flew in again to the northeastern extremity to continue the air sweeps designed to knock out Rabaul, the battered center of Japanese strength on New Britain.

That Rabaul can—and will—be bombed into uselessness, both as an air and shipping base, was the confident declaration of Marine Maj. Gen. Ralph J. Mitchell of New Britain, Comm. whose Solomons air force neutralized the Japanese air fields on invaded Bougainville.

Although the Japanese have lost more than 160 planes in defense of Rabaul in the last two weeks alone, Gen. Mitchell said the all-out air offensive against the enemy stronghold has "barely started yet." But he added, "it won't be long now."

On the heels of damage to two heavy cruisers and two destroyers at nearby Kavieng, New Ireland, to which much enemy shipping has been diverted from Rabaul, Allied airmen scored a direct hit on another Japanese cruiser off New Hanover, north of Kavieng. The Kavieng airdrome and harbor also were bombed.

But the Allies suffered a loss, too, in the disclosure that the U. S. submarine Pompano, a 1330-ton raider with missions close to the Japanese coastline to its credit, was missing, presumably in the Pacific.

BULLETIN

London, Jan. 6.—(P)—Small formations of RAF light bombers and fighter-bombers again attacked military objectives in northern France—the designation used in recent weeks to describe German defense installations, possibly including rocket guns—this morning it was officially announced.

Although the Japanese have lost more than 160 planes in defense of Rabaul in the last two weeks alone, Gen. Mitchell said the all-out air offensive against the enemy stronghold has "barely started yet." But he added, "it won't be long now."

Food Stamp Endorsement Surprise Move

By DONALD HYNDMAN

Washington, Jan. 6.—(P)—The War Food Administration gave surprise endorsement today to legislation that would set up a government stamp plan to subsidize the grocery bills of low income families.

The plan would provide for distribution of food stamps to families of substandard incomes to insure them an adequate, basic diet. The WFA estimated 18,000,000 persons would be eligible and that the program would cost the government a maximum of $3,000,000 yearly.

WFA approval was set forth in a letter to the senate agriculture committee, and plans were announced immediately to open hearings on the bill, probably within a week.

Surprise over WFA's sanction of the stamp plan was occasioned by the fact that the bill, introduced last July by Senators Aiken (R-Vt) and LaFollette (Prog-Wis), includes a ban against price control subsidies, key weapon in the administration's fight to stabilize consumer food prices at September, 1942, levels.

REPORT MADE ON LEND-LEASE AID TO ALLIES

President Declares United Nations Have Increased Powers To Defeat the Axis

TOTALS $18,608,000,000

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, Jan. 6.—(P)—President Roosevelt, in a report placing total lend-lease aid to America's allies at $18,608,000,000 through Nov. 30, declared today that 1944 "will be a year of decisive actions in the war."

He declared the United Nations had increased their powers to defeat the Axis and had "beaten back our enemies on every front."

At Allied war council at Tehran and Cairo a few weeks ago, the president said, plans were made for major offensives which will speed victory.

"With the closer unity there achieved," he asserted, "we shall be able to strike ever increasing blows until the unconditional surrender of the Nazis and Japanese."

He credited lend-lease with increasing the power of Allied offensives, emphasizing tremendous increases in shipments of munitions.

It was his thirteenth report on lend-lease since the program began in March, 1941, and it was transmitted to the secretary of the senate and clerk of the house.

Up to the end of November, the program, which was described as "an important element of United Nations strategy," took 13.5 cents out of every dollar of American war expenditures.

Exports, the assistance actively delivered to recipient nations, added up to $13,844,000,000 through October—more than one and a half times the sum for all of 1942.

Munitions accounted for $4,674,000,000 an increase of 142 percent over the corresponding 10 months of 1942.

Russia got $3,550,000,000 of the exports and the United Kingdom $5,986,000,000.

Hopes Revived For Peace In Rail Dispute

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

Washington, Jan. 6.—(P)—Three railroad operating unions, still holding aloof from arbitration, had assurances today that the carriers do not consider basic wages frozen for the duration of the war by President Roosevelt's decision governing two other brotherhoods.

This development, plus the appointment of a special presidential board to consider the non-operating case, revived hopes of an early settlement which would permit an end to army control of the nation's railroad system.

The carriers' position in the controversy was to be presented today to committees and general chairman, submitted to Washington by chiefs of the three operating unions—Conductors, Firemen and Switchmen—to determine a course of action.

WEATHER CHIEF RETIRING

Erle, Jan. 6.—(P)—Chief Observer Ralph W. Thomas and his assistant, Francis M. Flynn, announced they will retire from the U. S. Weather Bureau in February, after having served a total of 56 years. Thomas joined the service 35 years ago.

ment has been strong in the past. There were indications too that controversy may arise between the different presidential camps over the complexity of the arrangements committee, which traditionally picks the convention's keynote speaker and handles other details, including distribution of tickets to the galleries.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who is supporting Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio for the presidential nomination, said he had heard reports that an effort might be made by persons outside the Bricker camp to force selection of the arrangement.

Test of Strength Between G. O. P. Factions Foreseen

By JACK BELL

Washington, Jan. 6.—(P)—A test of strength between prospective presidential candidates appeared developing today on two issues the Republican national committee is expected to settle at its Chicago meeting next week—the site of the party's nominating convention and control of its important arrangements committee.

New York City's belated entry into the bidding gave elements of the party favorable to Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 presidential nominee, a talking point to force the convention away from Chicago, where so-called isolation senti-

Writer Dies

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 6.—(P)—Miss Ida Minerva Tarbell, dean of American women writers, died today at Bridgeport Hospital of pneumonia at the age of 86. The author had been on the danger list since she was admitted to the hospital December 27 from her home in nearby Easton, where she lived with a sister. Miss Tarbell gained a topnotch place among American writers with her books on Abraham Lincoln. She first gained wide prominence early in the century with a series of critical articles on John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and the old Standard Oil Company.

Russo-Polish Controversy Is Widening

Two Governments Appear Farther Apart Than Ever In Dispute

SETTLEMENT IS NEEDED

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Jan. 6.—(P)—Russia and the Polish government-in-exile today appeared farther apart than ever in their territorial dispute—settlement of which might speed the rout of German armies.

The breach, which gives added impetus to the forthcoming visit here of Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, stems from the London-based Polish government's contention that Russia should have guaranteed pre-war Poland's territorial integrity before her troops chased the Germans across the old Polish boundary.

That, in effect, was a restatement of the government's unrelenting position that the territory belongs to Poland.

Moscow has been equally insistent that the contested territories are integral parts of White Russia and the western Ukraine.

The effect of the dispute from a military angle already is being felt. The Russian pursuit of the Germans across Poland could be materially assisted by the Polish underground if that organization were directed to cooperate in sabotage and other guerrilla activities behind the German lines.

TOWN SEEKS DOCTOR

Littleton, Jan. 6.—(P)—Local residents, seeking the return here of Lt. Leonard L. Potter, a physician, from a Greensboro, N. C., army hospital, today were aided by the Adams County Medical Society's declaration of the community needs another doctor to relieve a shortage. This town of 2500 had five physicians before the war and now has two.

Report of Mutiny In Italy Verified

Barcelona, Jan. 6.—(P)—Travelers recently arrived from northeastern Italy today confirmed reports that 2,000 Italian soldiers who had been incorporated into the German army in the Fiume sector had staged a successful revolt on Dec. 30.

The travelers said the Italians, all wearing newly-issued German uniforms and bearing German arms, rebelled as they were about to be loaded into railroad cars to join German forces fighting Yugoslav partisans in southern Bosnia.

In a five-hour battle on the outskirts of Fiume, 500 of the revolting Italians were said to have held the Germans at bay while their comrades fled northward into the hills near San Pietro, where they joined a company of Croat-Italian guerrillas with quantities of arms and ammunition taken from the troop train.

LARGEST NAZI BALTIC PORT RAID TARGET

Double-Edged Assault Calculated to Disrupt Emergency Supply System to Berlin

FIFTEEN CRAFTS LOST

By GLADWIN HILL

London, Jan. 6.—(P)—Stettin, Germany's biggest port on the Baltic, was blasted by the RAF's heavy town wreckers last night and Berlin was bombed by Mosquito raiders in a double-edged assault calculated to disrupt the emergency supply system of the battered capital and shatter an important maritime lifeline to the Russian front.

The air ministry, in announcing the Stettin attack, said the assault was carried out in bright moonlight on a heavy scale with the storm of bombs well concentrated on the objectives.

Besides hitting Berlin for the second night in a row, thus allowing the bomb-pitted capital but one night's surcease since Sunday, the Mosquitos directed other blows at targets in western Germany and northern France.

Fifteen aircraft were lost in the assorted attacks which included the 1,500-mile round trip raid on Stettin.

Besides being an important marine and railroad terminal for supply of Germany's Baltic front in Russia, Stettin is a key peg in Hitler's industrial structure where many submarines and small ships are turned out.

With extensive damage in the last few weeks to communications into Berlin and the disruption of the commercial center of Leipzig to the south recently, it was likely, too, that much emergency traffic—including the shipment of bread—into Berlin had been diverted to routes through Stettin.

The bombing of the port city may therefore have been another blow in the battle of Berlin.

Reports from Switzerland yesterday said the German capital was now half destroyed and that another 25 percent of the city was badly damaged.

Meanwhile, the Stockholm Af-tontindingen reported that the arsenal and the important Deutsche Werke naval shipyard at Kiel were almost completely destroyed in yesterday's heavy bomber raid in which airfields at Bordeaux and Tours in France and other industrial targets in western Germany were hard hit.

Yesterday's raids, which extended over a record 800-mile front, cost a total of 25 heavy bombers and 12 fighters.

Duff Reported Virtually In Senate Race

Harrisburg, Jan. 6.—(P)—Attorney General James H. Duff was reported virtually assured of organization backing should he become a Republican candidate for the U. S. senate as Democratic chairmen returned here today to continue their slate-making conferences with county leaders.

Duff conferred with Governor Martin today, possibly to discuss the political situation but insisted afterwards that he hasn't decided whether or not to enter the April primary. Senator Davis has made no formal announcement of his plans but is expected by friends to seek re-election.

On the Democratic side, Congressman Michael J. Bradley of Philadelphia declared he is a candidate for the party's senate nomination, while at Easton, Congressman Francis E. Walter announced he is considering a proposal that he run. Lackawanna county leaders were reported backing State Senator Edward J. Coleman, Scranton, for the place.

EGG CEILING PRICES IN PITTSBURGH DROP

Pittsburgh, Jan. 6.—(P)—Retail ceiling prices on eggs will drop 1 and 2 cents a dozen each week from now until Feb. 24 when they will be 8 cents under current prices of 52, 59, 61 cents a dozen, the OPA announced.

The eventual low prices will be 20 cents a dozen below the ceilings of mid-November.

Here is the pattern of the Allies' heaviest single day's bombing so far over occupied Europe, indicating where 3000 planes, mostly American, loosed more than 3000 tons of bombs on Nazi installations in a daylight attack on the "invasion coast" and Germany. Only 25 planes are missing.

Despite Surplus Now Egg Famine Is Anticipated Later

By the Associated Press

Despite a surplus of eggs now flooding markets from coast to coast, poultry leaders today envisioned an acute egg famine in many parts of the country before the year ends if prices continue to decline while feed and labor costs rise.

Poultrymen reported many eastern and middle western farmers were selling their flocks because under-ceiling prices did not cover production costs and fear was expressed that so many would be disposed of there might be an egg shortage within a few months.

High feed prices were said to be making poultry men skeptical about the number of chicks which will be raised during the year for laying hens.

C. F. Parrish, North Carolina extension service poultry expert, said: "Farmers increased poultry and egg production went all out at the request of the government and now will be forced to sell or take a financial licking unless something is done."

Saving the northeastern states now have the greatest surplus of eggs in 25 years, President Foster F. Tabb of the Maine Poultry Cooperative said the over-supply and falling prices "will result in scores of poultrymen being forced out of business."

Maryland reported severe liquidation among small flock owners and some commercial growers. An official said feed prices are up 25 percent since Pearl Harbor.

On the west coast poultrymen of California and Oregon reported surpluses. No egg famine was seen in California, however, unless the weather is unfavorable.

In the state of Washington a cooperative official said: "The price drop has been faster than normal, if it drops too much it will likely discourage production." Drastic culling was planned for Oregon flocks this month.

C. Chester Dumond, New York state agriculture commissioner, said he had been informed that 2,800 cases of eggs were unsold at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., egg auction yesterday but added that he believed there may be an egg shortage later on.

Immediate government aid was asked by Representative Wene (D-N.J.), who operates one of the country's largest chick hatcheries. He said that egg prices were entirely out of line with present feed, labor and operating costs.

Wene said that to survive poultrymen must receive ceiling prices or be protected by a higher floor-base.

"For more than three years, the local boards and other units of Selective Service have done their work well. I know they can be counted upon to accept this new challenge."

SHIPPING OF ASHES IS DELAYED BY WAR

Pittsburgh, Jan. 6.—(P)—The ashes of Emil Well, paint company owner, must await the end of the war to find their final resting place.

Well died Dec. 28. His will directed his ashes be sent to a brother, Carl Well, 323 Adolf Hitler St., Freiburg, Germany.

The will left four-fifths of the estate to the brother and a sister, Bertha Grumbach, also in Germany. Notice of this provision has been sent to the alien property custodian.

Estep said the next step in his inquiry would have to be held up until completion of the transcription of testimony in the trial of William A. Morell, another farm employee. He said he expected this to be done by the end of the week.

Mercer Inquiry Is Proceeding Slowly

Mercer, Jan. 6.—(P)—Harry A. Estep, special assistant attorney general, said he hoped to end today one phase of his inquiry into the triple slaying of the Everett Wilson dairy farm last Oct. 7 by interviewing several persons, including Janice Graham, 20, who was employed on the farm.

Estep said the next step in his inquiry would have to be held up until completion of the transcription of testimony in the trial of William A. Morell, another farm employee. He said he expected this to be done by the end of the week.

Yesterday Estep conferred with former Sheriff Alex Elliott, Deputy Sheriff Fred Cubison and a Sharon newspaperman concerning statements purportedly made by Morell after he and Miss Graham had been found in an Ohio farmhouse the day after the slayings.

Morell at his trial repudiated the statements, in which he allegedly had admitted killing the three.

GERMAN ARMY RE-FORMS FOR NEW DEFENSE

Capture of Pivotal Rail Junction Wins Special Order of Day From Stalin

SLUCH RIVER BREACHED

Moscow, Jan. 6.—(P)—The German army of Field Marshal Fritz von Manstein has retreated into the Friepet marshes and reformed for another stand along the pre-war Polish frontier west and south of Olesiv, a customs station which the Soviets captured Monday.

This stiffened resistance on the main route from Kiev to Warsaw developed as the massive drive of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army swept southward toward the Dniester river, the pre-war Rumanian border, at an accelerated pace following the capture of Berdichev, a pivotal rail center 25 miles south of Zhitomir.

Advices from the front said that von Manstein had taken up positions favorable for defense with his left flank protected by the marshes and was making a determined stand west of Olesiv along the railway leading to Kovel, a city 130 miles inside the former Polish border, and also in the region southward between Gorodnitsa and Novogorod-Volynski. REPORTS SHOW PEOPLE WANT COUNTY FAIRS

By WILLIAM G. SMOCK

Harrisburg, Jan. 6.—(P)—Declaring "people still want county fairs," the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs today reported 1943 exhibitions made a total profit of more than $55,000 and said plans for 1944 events were already under way.

"Of 41 fairs conducted in 1943, only 18 operated at a loss," asserted Charles W. Swoyer, association secretary. "It was a good year despite wartime restrictions."

Swoyer put total 1943 attendance at 1,600,000, compared with 1,571,000 in 1942 when 60 shows were held.

BULLETINS

London, Jan. 6.—(P)—Marshal Erwin Rommel has completed a tour of German defense installations in Iceland as a part of his inspection of the anti-invasion works of Europe's west coast. DNB said today in a Berlin broadcast.

New York, Jan. 6.—(P)—The Rev. Joseph J. Lynch, Fordham University seismologist, said today the university's seismological observatory had recorded two "fairly severe" earth tremors about 10,000 miles from here in the general direction of the Dutch East Indies.

London, Jan. 6.—(P)—About 50 Allied merchantmen have left Gibraltar along with a cruiser, destroyers and corvettes, the German DNB agency asserted today. (Turn to Page Eleven)

Size of Navy Doubled In a Year Undersecretary States

New York, Jan. 6.—(P)—American shipyards, working at high speed and doubling the size of the navy in a year, built 65 aircraft carriers of all types in 1943.

James Forrestal, undersecretary of the navy, disclosed this record figure on carrier production today in a speech prepared for the Beekman Hospital Fund Drive.

The undersecretary reported that six 27,000-ton carriers of the Essex type were included in the total. In addition nine light carriers of the 10,000-ton converted cruiser type were built and 50 escort carriers were turned out. The escort carriers are the small ships which have been doing such a big job in beating off the Nazi submarine menace in the Atlantic.

Erie OPA Controls Rents In Warren County Towns Now

Completion of the transfer of all Warren county rent files from the Jamestown area office to the Erie OPA headquarters was announced yesterday by Frederick C. Backus, OPA deputy district rent executive. Effective immediately Warren district landlords and tenants will conduct their business with the Erie office. Charles H. Leslie, Erie OPA director declared that Frank S. Anderson, district rent executive, has been appointed rent director for Warren county. A representative of the War Price and Rationing Board will be in Warren from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. each Wednesday to handle cases. Warren county residents closer to Corry than Warren may avail themselves of services each Thursday from 1 to 4 p. m. in the Corry municipal building.

Tenants with a written lease or other rental agreement may be legally evicted if they refuse to execute a written extension or renewal not to exceed one year. Frank S. Anderson, rent director, stated Wednesday.

However Anderson said, tenants are not required to sign an extension or a renewal if it contains new terms or conditions not in the old lease and inconsistent with the maximum rent regulations.

Landlords are prohibited from inserting in leases rent rates higher than the maximum legal rent and a tenant is not obliged to pay a higher rent because the lease is renewed.

D. W. Patterson, district rent counsel, added that landlords must give tenants a reasonable time in which to sign a new lease.

EGGS ARE PLENTIFUL

Dealers about the city who handle eggs report that there is a deluge of eggs coming into market now. They attribute the plentifulness of eggs to the fact that farmers who have small flocks find their hens laying now that they have stopped moulting. Big poultry raisers by scientific measures have fairly steady egg production but the small flocks are now at work and eggs are plentiful. The price reflects the quantity of eggs and many are being sold at 49 cents the dozen.

State Supreme Court Affirms Findings of Judge A. D. Wade

In an opinion handed down by Justice Stearns of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, the Supreme Court affirmed the decision of Judge Wade in the case of Esther D. Samuelson, v. Charles Axel Anderson Est.

Mrs. Samuelson filed a petition in the Orphan's Court of Warren County asking for specific performance, in which she alleged that in March 1937 she had entered into an oral contract with the decedent under the terms of which she agreed to receive Charles Axel Anderson into her home and board, lodge and nurse him as long as he desired and in consideration thereof Anderson orally agreed to devise and bequeath his home located at 109 Canton Street, his household goods and automobile. Mrs. Samuelson further alleged that pursuant to this oral agreement, Anderson did execute such a will and that she thereafter boarded and nursed Anderson for a period of two years, when he left her home of his own accord. Anderson died in April 1942, and in his last will and testament, which was dated March 8, 1940, he did not devise and bequeath to Mrs. Samuelson the house and lot on Canton Street together with the household goods and automobile. To this petition, Frank R. Carlson, the executor of the Anderson Est., filed an answer raising questions of law.

Judge Wade ruled that Mrs. Samuelson was not entitled to equitable relief and that her claim, if any, was for damages for breach of contract, if there was a breach, but that under the law she was not entitled to the house and lot on Canton Street. In the opinion by the Supreme Court, Justice Stearns affirmed the decision of Judge Wade and further held that the alleged agreement violated the Statute of Frauds and that therefore Mrs. Samuelson was not entitled to a decree transferring the property to her.

William Glassman, attorney, represented the Estate and argued the case in the lower Court as well as before the Supreme Court. Mrs. Samuelson was represented by S. Y. Rossiter, a well known Erie attorney.

L. C. LeVan Is Honored At Metzger - Wright Co. Dinner

Wednesday evening in the private dining room of the Blue and White, the Metzger-Wright Company entertained its buyers at a dinner in honor of L. C. LeVan who is celebrating his twenty-five years as an executive of the store.

Mr. LeVan came to Warren in 1919 from the Clark Hardware Company, of Jamestown, at the time of the merger of Metzger-Wright Company with the C. H. Smith Company.

After the dinner, William H. Wright, president of Metzger-Wright Company, gave a brief resume of the life of Mr. LeVan. Mr. LeVan was born at Copely, Pennsylvania but soon went to live in Kansas with his uncle, a stock farmer, owning 1840 acres of grazing land in Kansas. To attend school he had to walk 2 1/2 miles to Tonganoxie, where he had among his schoolmates the now famous Wright Brothers and Governor Scott of Kansas. Later he attended the Friends Academy and the University of Kansas. He then sold horses for his uncle, taking them in carloads to New Orleans and different Texas cities. Later he came east to Waterville, Ohio, where he worked for some time on an oil lease. From there he went to Titusville, Pennsylvania where he went to work for S. S. Evers Hardware Company. From 1894 to 1900 he had his own bicycle store, in Titusville. In 1900 Kansas attracted him once more and he returned to work in Iowa, in a plumbing and heating store.

In 1902, Mr. LeVan was married to Flora Barnes of Pleasantville. In 1904 he came back to Cambridge Springs, as manager of the Cambridge Springs Hardware Store. His first experience in Warren was in 1905 when he joined the Fickett Hardware Company as assistant manager under Henry Stillwell. This store was then located where the Everts Hardware store now stands. After nine years he went to St. Mary's, as manager of the Hall Kane and Hyde hardware store.

1916 found him with the Clark Hardware in Jamestown, from where he came to Metzger-Wright's in 1919. During the twenty-five years in Warren, Mr. LeVan has made hosts of friends not only through the store but through his interest in his church work, being an active member of the Presbyterian church for the twenty-five years he has been in Warren.

Mr. Wright called on O. A. Presel for a few anecdotes on Mr. LeVan's life in Kansas.

Mr. LeVan reminisced in his usual interesting manner, telling of many incidents of his retail career.

At the close of the dinner, he was presented with a twenty-five dollar War Bond by the buyers of the store and also a twenty-five dollar War Bond from the Metzger-Wright Company, after which all were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wright.

Purple Heart Award Given Clarendon Boy

Word has been received here that Wallace D. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace "Pikey" D. Wright, of Clarendon, has been awarded the Purple Heart by the U. S. Army following his being wounded in the fighting in Italy early in the month of December.

Word that the young man has been wounded was contained in a telegram sent to his parents, December 2nd, by the War Department. No details of his wound or its nature nor where he received it other than in Italy were given. The telegram simply said young Wright had been "seriously wounded." Later a letter from the War Department was received which said the young man had been released from the hospital.

A V-Mail letter from their son was received later which had been written on December 13th. It said he was sending home a package of gifts for his family and that his Purple Heart award was in the package and he asked that his mother wear it for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright are anxiously awaiting further word from their son and are hopeful that he may get a furlough and come home. They are also awaiting the arrival of the package with much keen anticipation.

Moose Lodge Buys Bomber For Air Corps

Warren Lodge of Moose together with others in Western Pennsylvania have purchased a bomber for the U. S. Air Corps it was announced at a meeting of the Warren Lodge Loyal Order of Moose last night. Warren Lodge in unison with others in this end of the state has conducted a four weeks drive in the sale of War Bonds which resulted in the sale of $385,000. The Moose of this section of the Moose domain are immensely proud of the fact that the bomber carries the name "Moose of Western Pennsylvania" painted on its side. All that the Moose are hoping for now is that the bomber will carry the maximum of destruction to the enemy.

the amount required to meet the cost of the bomber is due Jack Stoehr, a past supreme governor of the Moose and regional director for the lodges of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. Mr. Stoehr has been a frequent visitor to the Warren Lodge and has played a large part in its being one of the largest Moose lodges in this section.

At last evening's meeting there was a large amount of business transacted and plans were laid for a further purchase of War Bonds in the drive to be conducted this morning.

Shipment Of Salvage Huge In November

The next regular meeting of the Warren County Council of Defense will be held Friday afternoon in the office of the Council, 311 Market street.

In the minutes of the last regular meeting there appears some highly interesting matters relative to the Salvage work which is under way in the county and during the month of November yoman work was done. Appearing in the minutes as compiled by Secretary Beatrice B. Genge is the following relative to Salvage:

"Mr. Corbett reported that we have had a very successful Pearl Harbor Day paper pickup which is not yet completed, having picked up between 30 and 40 tons on the streets in Warren, and about 60 tons or more from the county. Russell had over 7 tons; and one of the teachers, Laura Deming from Thompson Hill School, brought in 765 pounds. Pleasant Township had 5,700 pounds. In all we will probably have about 8 car loads of paper for which we are getting $16.00 per ton. In the clothing drive our allotment was about 20,000 garments, and we think we will have between 50 and 60 thousand, and they are very fine garments.

"The following scrap was shipped out of Warren in November: 403 tons of steel and metal scrap; 176 tons of paper; 4,175 pounds of rags; 23,508 pounds of copper, brass and aluminum; 2,585 pounds of fat; 23 1/2 tons of rubber, and 180 pounds of collapsible tubes."

Storm Is Due Over County This Evening

Old Probs has taken the bit in his teeth and is promising a real storm for this territory. The warmer weather of the past few days is to be followed by a real old soaker of a storm if the weatherman can be believed. During the past 24 hours almost every kind of weather has been sampled by the Warren county folk.

Sunshine, clouds, rain, high winds and snow were all produced from the weatherman's bag of tricks and unloaded on the unsuspecting folk of this county. The roads and sidewalks were covered with sleet and ice and driving and walking was difficult. A light fall of snow followed and the early birds who get on the job in the hours of darkness slipped and slid and many suffered falls. How ever no one was reported as being seriously hurt. Traffic moved slowly and there were no traffic accidents reported.

REGULATIONS UNCHANGED

Fishermen of Warren county have read with interest the announcement of C. A. French, Commissioner of Fisheries that regulations governing fishing in the state are unchanged this year. The trout season will open on April 15 and the bass, pike and pickerel season on July 1 with the same size, season and number remaining the same. Last season's trout fishing season was not overly pleasing to the anglers as the catch was not large and conditions during the season were not good. The catch of wall eyed pike late in the season was good with some fish taken in the river below Warren.

DOORS UNLOCKED

Police last night in their knob turning expeditions found an epidemic of unlocked doors about the town and they entered and searched all places and then either locked the doors or notified the managers of the business houses. They were also summoned to the old Koebeley shop on the island where the Salvage committee of the Council of Defense has stored a large quantity of second hand clothing, rags, paper, etc. An odor of gasoline is reported but this is thought due to the fact that the clothing was cleaned and is being put in shape to ship.

DEATH of a Saboteur

By Hulbert Footner

Chapter 20

THEY walked a little way up the Avenue and returned. When they reached the corner again, the first punper was roaring through Sixty-seventh Street.

Policemen came with the firemen and the people were thrust back. Lee and Welby in the first rank were interested spectators.

Firemen were dragging a hose. As soon as it was connected, they thrust the nozzle between the bars and through the glass into the blazing room. A fireman ran up with an axe.

The chief and others of his men ran up a ladder and disappeared into the salon. A moment later the lights in the entrance hall came on, the steel grille swung in, and the firemen could be seen in the hall; also some of Count Deduchin's servants running around crazily.

Suddenly the gaunt, wild-looking figure of Goroshovel came out of the house unnoticed. He had no hat and his hair was sticking out in all directions.

"It worked!" said Lee laconically to Welby.

LEE followed Goroshovel on the other side of the street. When he got beyond the crowd and the confusion he crossed over and, coming up behind the Russian, touched his elbow.

At Lee's touch the man gasped. "What has happened?" asked Lee.

"I don't know," said Goroshovel hoarsely. "A lot of firemen broke in. I escaped."

"You're ill," said Lee. "Come and have a drink."

Goroshovel shook his head. "I can't be seen anywhere. I have no shirt! They tore it off me. When the firemen broke in all I could find was my jacket."

"Then you shall come home with me," said Lee soothingly. Half an hour later, the two were facing each other across Lee's dining table. A bottle of whisky stood before them.

"You have been kind to me, Mr. Mappin," Goroshovel said defiantly. "but of course that was only because it suited your purpose. What happened tonight is my business."

"You don't have to tell me what happened tonight," said Lee. "It was written in your face when you came out of that house. What are you going to do when you leave here?" asked Lee.

"I'm not talking," said Goroshovel. "I don't understand what your game is. But that's your affair."

Lee smiled. "At the moment I am merely a psychologist and you are an interesting subject. I cannot understand how it is a wretch like Deduchin can still command your loyalty."

Goroshovel said quickly: "It is not for the Count that I risk my life."

"O.KAY," said Lee. "We won't go into that... When you leave here you can't go home because Deduchin has your address and his men will be waiting for you. What are you going to do? Deduchin is certain to run you down."

"He must be mad!" Goroshovel broke out, forgetting himself. "I have not been a traitor. I went there tonight to... He suddenly shut up."

"You went there tonight to prove your loyalty," Lee put in quietly.

Goroshovel looked at him in surprise. "You know a lot more than you let on," he said.

Lee disregarded this. "You are accused of the murder of Lenkoran," said Lee.

"I had no hand in it," Goroshovel said quickly.

"If that is true, then you have nothing to fear from the police. I recommend that you surrender yourself to them. You'd be safe there from Deduchin. So far, as I can see, you have no choice in the matter," Lee went on carelessly. "Nobody can make you talk, you say; you won't betray ar secrets! And when the truth comes out about Lenkoran's death, Deduchin will see that he has misjudged you."

"But if I was cleared of Lenkoran's murder I wouldn't go free," muttered Goroshovel. "The Federal dicks would be waiting for me."

"Sure, they would," said Lee coolly. "But you wouldn't die with the name of a traitor. You'd be a hero to your own people."

After a while Goroshovel said heavily: "All right. I don't know what your game is. I do this, not because you advise it, but because I don't see anything else I can do."

As they sped downtown, Lee said: "Are you willing to tell me what happened the night Lenkoran was killed? That, I take it, would not be betraying any of your friends."

"No," said Goroshovel, "because I don't know who killed him. That's the truth, believe it or not... After you left the Prince's apartment that night, he got restless and absent-minded. He seemed to be listening for something. He was drinking heavily, but it didn't affect him. In the end he left the room without a word of explanation."

"What happened then?"

"After a little, five or ten minutes maybe, Scharipov and I went out of the living room together. We left Tashla sitting in a chair by a window smoking a cigar. Scharipov went on to get a drink in the bar."

"Can you swear that he went into the bar?"

"No, I couldn't swear to it. He said he was going to the bar. I was already in the dressing room before he opened the door into the foyer. I was in the dressing room when I heard the shot."

"From what direction?"

"It was muffled, but by instinct told me it had been fired close by. I was badly scared. I ran out and collided with Tashla in the passage. In the foyer we met Scharipov. We all had the one thought, to get out of the place."

"WELL, if you're telling me the truth," said Lee, "it seems as if it couldn't have been Tashla; because you left him in the living room and after the shot you met him coming out of there... But wait a minute! Suppose Lenkoran had quietly returned to the living room?"

Goroshovel merely shrugged. "Or it could have been Scharipov," said Lee, studying his face. "You said you came on him in the foyer."

"That's right. But Prince Lenkoran wasn't there."

"The shot might have been fired in the bar."

"It could have been."

"On the level, who did shoot him?" asked Lee. "You must have a theory."

"The girl," said Goroshovel. "Everybody connected with the case is satisfied of that but you."

MOST BRILLIANT INTERVIEW

Frederick C. Panton, writing in the Reader's Digest, tells the following story:

Some 60 war correspondents, half of them American, half British, all with vast experience in this global war, were waiting for an off-the-record interview with General George C. Marshall at the St. George Hotel in Algiers.

A door opened, a hush fell, General Marshall walked in. He looked around the room, his eyes calm, his face impassive. "To save time," he said, "I'm going to ask each of you what questions you have in mind." His eyes turned to the first correspondent. "What's your question?" A penetrating query was put; General Marshall nodded and went on to the next man—and so around the room, until 60 correspondents had asked challenging questions ranging from major strategy to technical details of the war on a dozen fronts.

General Marshall looked off into space for perhaps 30 seconds. Then he began. For nearly 40 minutes he spoke. His talk was a smooth, connected, brilliantly clear narrative that encompassed the war. And this narrative, smooth enough to be a chapter in a book, included a complete answer to every question we had asked.

But what astounded us most was this: as he reached the point in his narrative which dwelt upon a specific question, he looked directly at the man who had asked the question!

Afterward I heard many comments from the correspondents. Some said they had just encountered the greatest military mind in history. Others exclaimed over the encyclopedic detail Marshall could remember. All agreed on one thing: "That's the most brilliant interview I ever attended in my life."

SCHOOLING

There are more than a million less youngsters in the public high schools this year than there were two years ago, the U. S. Office of Education reports. This sets enrollment back 10 years, and represents a drop of 246,000 boys and 135,000 girls since last year. In the two upper classes there are 15 per cent less boys and 5 per cent less girls.

The distribution makes it obvious that the armed services, slightly and war work for the most part, are responsible for the decrease. Probably that is inevitable. Boys and girls are anxious to get into the "good-money" that is available, and also want to aid in war production.

But Paul McNutt, who should know our manpower problem better than most, joins with Education Commissioner Studebaker and with Katherine Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau, in urging that schooling be not neglected. We do not want the next generation to lose ground in the progress that democracy has been achieving.

HEALTH RULES

There are nine rules of health which Academies of Medicine are urging people to observe now, during the winter. They are as follows:

- Avoid crowds.
- Cancel unnecessary meetings.
- Get plenty of sleep.
- Avoid overwork.
- Eat sensibly.
- Treat colds seriously.
- With cold or fever, go to bed.
- Isolate patient and his dishes.
- Don't return to work too soon.

(That last rule should be easy.)

The diaper problem is all wrapped up in the snarl of transportation and manpower shortages. Expeditors, experts, and specialists in the Office of Civilian Requirements are discussing how to make diaper delivery service go further. To decrease deliveries will take a bigger supply of diapers. To increase them to make ends meet on diaper supply takes more tires and man-power.

You Wouldn't Know It Was the Same Bird

THREE YEARS AGO—

AND TODAY

Washington in Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The recent appointment of Walter O'Meara, New York advertising executive, as Office of Price Administration deputy administrator in charge of information, is just one more proof that the advertising industry has taken over OPA.

O'Meara is the fourth big advertising executive to take over a key position in OPA since Administrator Chester Bowles, of the advertising firm of Benton and Bowles, started his reorganization some weeks ago.

There are James G. Rogers, Jr., former general manager of Benton and Bowles, who is assistant to the administrator in charge of national operations, and Col. Bryan Houston, vice president of Young and Rubicam, another New York advertising company, who is deputy administrator in charge of rationing.

The interesting thing about this is that it marks the third phase which battered and embattled OPA has gone through since it was established by executive order less than three years ago on April 11, 1941.

AT ITS inception, the economists—men usually identified with the New Deal since its infancy—took over under the leadership of Leon Henderson, almost from the outset. Henderson and his deputy administrator in charge of price divisions, J. K. Galbraith, in particular, and OPA in general became the targets of Congressional criticism. The antagonism was bitter and unyielding.

In the meantime, James F. Byrnes had stepped down from the U. S. Supreme Court to take over as President Roosevelt's right hand in charge of the home front. His solution was to place in charge of OPA political leaders who had the confidence of Congress—and business men, who could cut through the red tape and gain the confidence of the retailers and wholesalers most affected by price controls.

Topping this organization were Prentiss Brown, former Michigan Senator, attorney, banker, financier; and Clyde L. Herring, former Senator from Iowa, who became senior assistant to Administrator Brown.

For a while it looked as if the administration had cured its OPA headache. But it wasn't many months before this sand castle started falling apart. Black markets began spreading and OPA hadn't the personnel to stem them nor the support of business or the public, which might have put a stop to it.

IT became apparent then that the only salvation for OPA and the continuation of effective price controls rested with an informed public—a public aware of the dangers of inflation and ready to co-operate to prevent runaway prices and black markets.

That's why the advertising industry was called in. For the most part, there will be few changes in OPA regulations and most of these will be on the side of relaxation.

THE other unfolding juveniles have had about the same experience. They work more or less steadily, but not often do they nab the parts that might bring Oscars. Frank Albertson has had more opportunities than some of his fellow-babes, and invariably turns in a good job, but generally his assignment is like the one he has now in "I Love a Soldier," soldier sidekick to Sonny Tufts.

Johnny Downs has been in pictures 20 years, dates back to "The Gang" and, later, collegiate pictures by the dozen. He's had a few solid roles, like that of the stool pigeon in "Algiers," but that was five years ago. Elisha Cook holds up, usually memorably, very frequently as in the "Phantom Lady," which has him as a cynical trap-drummer who gets bumped off. Tom Brown began in school-boy roles. The last chance he had to give a real dramatic performance was "In Old Chicago"—as a kid brother.

And what do they have that a lot of Oscar-hoping actors, who look their age, haven't? A youthful appearance, for which many an Oscar-contender would turn in all his chances for an Oscar.

tagonism was bitter and unyielding.

In the meantime, James F. Byrnes had stepped down from the U. S. Supreme Court to take over as President Roosevelt's right hand in charge of the home front. His solution was to place in charge of OPA political leaders who had the confidence of Congress—and business men, who could cut through the red tape and gain the confidence of the retailers and wholesalers most affected by price controls.

Topping this organization were Prentiss Brown, former Michigan Senator, attorney, banker, financier; and Clyde L. Herring, former Senator from Iowa, who became senior assistant to Administrator Brown.

For a while it looked as if the administration had cured its OPA headache. But it wasn't many months before this sand castle started falling apart. Black markets began spreading and OPA hadn't the personnel to stem them nor the support of business or the public, which might have put a stop to it.

IT became apparent then that the only salvation for OPA and the continuation of effective price controls rested with an informed public—a public aware of the dangers of inflation and ready to co-operate to prevent runaway prices and black markets.

That's why the advertising industry was called in. For the most part, there will be few changes in OPA regulations and most of these will be on the side of relaxation.

THE other unfolding juveniles have had about the same experience. They work more or less steadily, but not often do they nab the parts that might bring Oscars. Frank Albertson has had more opportunities than some of his fellow-babes, and invariably turns in a good job, but generally his assignment is like the one he has now in "I Love a Soldier," soldier sidekick to Sonny Tufts.

Johnny Downs has been in pictures 20 years, dates back to "The Gang" and, later, collegiate pictures by the dozen. He's had a few solid roles, like that of the stool pigeon in "Algiers," but that was five years ago. Farm Groups To Meet in Lieu of the Annual State Show

Harrisburg, Jan. 5—Pennsylvania farmers will make a self-appraisal of their combined efforts to increase wartime food production in a series of meetings called by 18 state-wide agricultural organizations in Harrisburg on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 18, 19 and 20.

Various problems faced by agriculture under wartime conditions will be considered by State and National farm leaders in programs conducted under sponsorship of the State Farm Production Show Commission, in lieu of the annual Farm Show exhibition which has been cancelled for the duration of the war.

The January "Farm Week" officially opens Tuesday night the 18th with a general session where Miles Horst, State Secretary of Agriculture and chairman of the Farm Show Commission, will preside. Most of the farm organizations will concentrate their annual meetings on Tuesday afternoon, all day Wednesday and Thursday. The program comes to a close Thursday night with the annual banquet of the Potato Growers' Association.

Business of Pennsylvania Retailers Up 15 Per Cent

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Pennsylvania retailers, exclusive of department stores, did 15 per cent more business in November than in the same month of 1942, the census bureau announced.

Department store sales were up 18 per cent.

Comparisons of the first 11 months of 1943 with the same period in 1942 showed retail sales up seven per cent, and department store sales up nine per cent.

Comparing November, 1943, with October, 1943, retail sales were virtually unchanged, but department store sales increased 13 per cent.

The bureau said all percentages were based on dollar volume. Retail sales percentages were based on reports from 1,662 stores. Department store figures were computed from reports received from 68 stores.

Independent retailers reported sales increases for November, 1943, over November, 1942, in Lancaster of 29 per cent; Johnstown, 26 per cent; Reading and Scranton, 23 per cent each; Altoona and York, 22 per cent each; Pittsburgh, 19 per cent; Allentown, 18 per cent; Philadelphia and Easton, 17 per cent each; Harrisburg and McKeesport, 12 per cent each, and Erie and Wilkes-Barre, 11 per cent each. New Castle sales showed virtually no change, but Williamsport recorded a decline of 10 per cent.

Of the non-durable goods trades, the announcement said, reports from family clothing stores showed sales for November, 1943, over November, 1942, up 32 per cent; women's ready-to-wear stores, up 30 per cent; restaurants, cafeterias, lunchrooms, 22 per cent; dry goods and general merchandise stores, 21 per cent; men's clothing and furnishings stores, 16 per cent; drinking places, 13 per cent; drug stores, florists, and general stores, 12 per cent each; shoe stores, 9 per cent, and food stores, 5 per cent.

Filing stations showed a decline of 9 per cent.

Among the durable goods trades, jewelry stores recorded an increase of 29 per cent; motor-vehicle dealers, 17 per cent; lumber-building materials dealers, 14 per cent, and hardware stores, 6 per cent.

Sales of furniture stores were approximately the same as in November, 1942, but decreases were reported by household appliance dealers of 30 per cent, and radio and musical instrument stores of 35 per cent.

Whereas a division in World War I used 4400 horses and 153 motor vehicles with a total of about 8000 available horsepower, the same division today uses about 2700 vehicles with about 450,000 horsepower—and all from internal combustion engines.

Exercises To Be Enjoyed By Girl Scouts

Girl Scouts will hurry through their dinners tonight to be on hand at the Twelfth Night celebration at the Y. W. C. A. at seven o'clock. They can skip the dessert at home, however, because the big Twelfth Night cake with its mysterious contents will be served at the beginning of the program.

The Girl Scout who finds a nickel in her cake will don the King's robes and take his place on the throne beside his queen who was lucky enough to discover a novelty pin bearing a picture of a Girl Scout. These royal personages will be attended by a court of twelve girls in red and green capes, each of whom will have found a penny in her cake.

A jester's costume awaits the girl who finds a little bell and she has the time honored privilege of playing tricks on the royal court and the audience for the rest of the evening.

After the crowning of the Twelfth Night King and Queen, their subjects will be reviewed in a grand march and the Christmas carollers will end the season by singing the favorite carols of the King and Queen.

The Queen will wear a gorgeous new robe of red brocade with spangle trimmings. If you did not know, you would never imagine that it was ever a pair of draperies.

Mrs. Harold Blair, Mrs. William Parmelee, Mrs. H. A. Rinard and Mrs. H. K. Ansell are members of the program committee of the Warren County Girl Scout Council, assisting the chairman, Mrs. D. E. Conaway with preparations for the Twelfth Night party.

County Agent's News

New Oat Varieties Adapted to State—Because of the seed shortage of good standard Pennsylvania oats, such as Patterson and Cornelian, Warren County farmers are urged to consider the new varieties, Vicland, Boone, and Tama, says County Agent O. C. Tritt.

In demonstrations conducted in 1943 by the agricultural extension service of the Pennsylvania State College, the average yield of Vicland was 55 bushels, Boone 56 bushels, and Tama 54 bushels an acre. In the same demonstrations, the average yield of Patterson was 39 bushels an acre. Beaver, a new oat recently released by the College, produced 46 bushels an acre, and 90A-27, another oat developed by the College, yielded 44 bushels.

Extension agronomists of the College say that the big difference in yield in 1943 in favor of the new varieties was due largely to the fact that they all show resistance to stem and leaf rust. They also are resistant to smut, as is 90A-27 and Beaver. This big difference in yield may not hold true in a good oat year; however, in a good oat year, Patterson probably would not yield substantially higher than the new varieties.

Vicland, Boone, and Tama are resistant to lodging, with Boone probably being the stiffest strawed. They all are short strawed and not satisfactory for oat hay. Being considerably earlier than Patterson and Cornelian, they should be superior in southeastern Pennsylvania where late varieties seldom give complete satisfaction.

Since these new varieties, Vicland, Tama, and Boone, are short strawed, resistant to lodging, and early, they probably are the best varieties in which to seed legumes and grasses.

Avoid Wet Litter in Care of Chicks Now—Wet litter often is a problem under electric hovers during cold weather, points out County Agent O. C. Tritt.

He says that the problem is aggravated when the building is uninsulated, when the electric hover is the sole source of heat in the brooder room, when crowding under the hover is due to too many chicks for the capacity of the stove in cold weather or because the temperature under the stove is too low, when ventilating conditions under the hover are inadequate, and when the litter is neglected.

Good management calls for daily stirring of the litter under the hover and about the stove so that the air can penetrate the litter and dry it, explain extension poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Often it may be necessary to move the hover to dry litter so that the litter of the former position can be dried by stirring or removed. Even so, frequent replenishment of the litter may be necessary in cold weather.

Less litter trouble occurs on well-built concrete floors than with a single wood floor. Cold air below the floor tends to cause condensation of moisture in the air under the hover and so litter wetting readily occurs. Some Warren county poultrymen place insulation board on the floor under the hover. Then the litter tends to remain dry longer. Cold air does not so readily "feet" the litter in insulated brooder houses.

Raising of the canopy at night when the chicks are all sleeping under the hover not only assures good ventilation but also helps combat the wet litter problem. Then the chicks distribute over the floor more readily because they are more comfortable and a larger area is affected less severely.

When auxiliary heat is supplied to rooms in which electric hovers are used, there is less trouble with wet litter. Some poultrymen space coal, oil, or wood-burning stoves between the electric hovers, separating the broods by wire partitions. When the litter is stirred daily and the pen properly ventilated, very little wet litter trouble is experienced under these conditions.

Potatoes Inexpensive Source of Vitamin C

Home makers need to select winter foods carefully, so they can get the most vitamin C for their money. When fresh fruits and vegetables are scarce, supplying the family with its daily vitamin C is likely to be a problem.

Oranges and grapefruit are some of the best and most economical fruits for vitamin C in winter, according to research workers at the Montana State Experiment Station. They found that serving these fruits whole instead of in juice saves about one-third of the vitamin which is strained out of the juice and goes with the peel into the garbage pail.

The canned juices of grapefruit or orange proved good foods for C and also economical when bought in large cans. Since most families do not use the contents of a large can at one time, tests were made to see if any vitamin C was lost while the opened can stood in the refrigerator. At the end of 48 hours of refrigeration, the canned juice has almost the same amount of vitamin C as when it was first opened.

Foods vary in their vitamin C content. One cup of tomato juice is needed to provide the same amount of vitamin C as that supplied by a half cup of citrus juice. It also has been found that tomato juice in opened cans held its vitamin C during 48 hours of refrigeration.

Among the vegetables tested at the Montana Station, three were exceedingly high in vitamin C—cooked fresh broccoli, fresh Brussels sprouts and stored rutabagas. Rutabagas cost much less than the others per serving. Other mem-

LUDLOW

The Church Christmas season of the Lutheran church began with Julotta at eight o'clock on Christmas morning, with Pastor Carl Gronquist presiding. Special music was given by the choir.

The cantata which was to have been given on Sunday morning had to be canceled due to illness. The regular church service was held at eleven o'clock.

The Sunday school festival was held on Dec. 26 at 3:30 p. m. The title of the program was "The Light of the World."

The offering which was taken at this program was given to the organist which is an annual custom in Moriah Lutheran.

The Benediction.

The Threefold Amen.

The Christmas program of the Mission church was held on Christmas night with the Reverend Nyline conducting the meeting. All of the Sunday school children usually lack organization and are dismayed to the well-ordered homemaker.

In spite of their shortcomings, catchall rooms are step and space savers when properly arranged. A catchall room can be equipped with canvas shelves, hooks and cupboards so that members of the family can have no excuse for not having a place to put their belongings.

There can be tall spaces for golf clubs, fishing rods, guns; low shelves or hooks for skates; boxes for balls; and shelves or drawers for toys. Every one will find his equipment accessible when he wants it. By having a convenient and well-arranged catchall room, closets for regular wearing apparel won't be overcrowded.

A new mending tape has come to the aid of busy homemakers. It's applied by pressing on over a tear, using a hot iron pressing down firmly for a few seconds. After heating, the tape will hold to any textile and will withstand washing, ironing and dry cleaning.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Franklin Quint To Oppose Kolpienmen In First Loop Start of the Season At Beaty

'Heinie' Kolpien's Warren High Dragons make their debut in District Ten PIAA league basketball competition tomorrow night on Beaty court when they do battle with a highly rated Nursery five from Franklin in an 8:30 feature.

After 11 successful years of competition in the Northern League of District nine, the Dragons will line their sights on new foes and new targets and the Nursery will provide the initial test.

At the same time the Blue and White will go hunting for their fifth victory in seven starts, and the local five is especially anxious to return to the win column after their upset at the hands of the Service-All Stars nearly two weeks ago.

A slight choice to win, the Kolpienmen have had ample time to prepare for this engagement, also plenty of time to heal their wounds from their second setback of the youthful campaign.

The locals have lots of time to display their best on the court, and Warren fans are expecting to see continued improvement with league competition getting under way.

Little information has been acquired concerning the Franklin quint, aside from the fact that their offensive strength has been better than average, their defense has been a problem at times, but height has given the Nursery an advantage over several foes they have dealt with to date.

How they'll honestly stack up against the Dragons tomorrow night remains to be seen, but Coach Kolpien's boys have carried a reputation since 1930 for holding their own when the league chips are down.

The Dragon passers copped the Northern League crown four times in their 11 years of campaigning about that circuit, went on to sectional titles on three occasions. They are hopeful of being just as successful in District Ten.

A preliminary attraction will begin at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night the main game to follow immediately after the conclusion of the curtain raiser.

Horses Make Final Whirl At Miami, Fla.

By E. V. W. Jones
Miami, Fla., Jan. 6.—(A.P.)—Glamorous Hialeah Park, with its pink flamingos and exotic landscape, reopens tomorrow after skipping an entire winter racing season because of wartime difficulties.

The horses today make a final whirl around Tropical Park, where through 19 days of racing, fans have passed $6,686,020 through the pari-mutuels wickets, or an average of $351,895 daily.

This figure sets no records, but in a Florida season unlike any previously experienced, it poses this question for experts: Will wagering reach its peak at Hialeah or is it already at a wartime flood?

Hialeah's average daily handle in 1942 when the track last operated was $520,185 for a 46-day total of $23,925,558. Its richer purses and outstanding stakes, including the $25,000 Widener, the $15,000 Flamingo and the $7,500 McLennan, attract fine horses, and in the past, the greatest throngs.

Miamians in other years considered the winter tourist season in its stride when Hialeah opened. That isn't true in 1944. The entire Miami area has been jammed for months, an acute housing shortage brought federal rent control, and grocers are sleeping with their horses in a number of race track stables.

16 SPRING GAMES ON YANKEES' SCHEDULE

New York, Jan. 6.—(A.P.)—A schedule of 16 spring exhibition game dates, nine of them in New Jersey cities, was announced yesterday by the New York Yankees, who will report March 13 at their Atlantic City Camp.

Twelve of the dates are filled, and other major league clubs will be the opposition in 10 of the games, the world champions meeting the Brooklyn Dodgers five times, the New York Giants and Philadelphia Athletics twice each, and the Phillies once.

Chicago Will Have Bowling Tournaments

Chicago, Jan. 6.—(A.P.)—The American Bowling Congress is a war casualty but big-time competition is very much alive in Chicago where tournaments, offering rich purses, again this winter are luring the nation's top rollers.

The first big tournament of 1944 is scheduled for this weekend, the eighth annual Ray Schalk five-man holiday sweepstakes, and 96 teams, the best in the Midwest, will compete for 16 cash awards. Top prize money will be $1,000, and 15 other awards will total $3,800.

The biggest individual prize ever offered in any bowling tournament—$5,100—is the pot of gold which a record number of bowlers will shoot for in the 31st Petersen classic which will start Jan. 22. Second prize is not exactly pin money, $2,500, while the complete prize list for the event, regarded as one of the most popular in the country, will total $30,400.

The Petersen classic is expected to draw a record total of 1,216 bowlers, breaking last year's high entry of 832. This year's top award exceeds the 1943 prize by $1,000. The event is restricted to bowlers having a 180 average and each bowler shoots eight games across 16 alleys.

Rains Delay Golf Tourney In California

Los Angeles, Jan. 6.—(A.P.)—Medalist honors in the $12,500 Los Angeles Golf championships were in the possession today of Harry Bassler, veteran professional of the local Fox Hills course, who fired a 72-70-142 yesterday to top a field of 109 qualifiers.

This course, and Sunset Fields, where the other half of the group was competing, were slowed by recent rains, and there were very few sub-par rounds. Scores of 154 or better were necessary at Fox Hills and 161 at Sunset Fields.

There was no action today but the qualifiers, plus 26 top ranking performers who were exempt from competing yesterday, will start into the championship round tomorrow at the Wilshire Country Club. There will be 18 holes a day through next Monday and the low scorer for the 72-hole competition will be awarded $4,375 in war bonds.

There were no big names in amateur or professional ranks who failed to get within the select circle. Such stars as Jug McSpaden, Ed Dudley, Leo Diegel, Willie Goggin, Johnny Bulla, George Van Eln and Harry Cooper, exempt from qualifying, were taking tune-ups today at Wilshire, where the fairways were reported to be much faster, despite light rains last night.

Torokina, Bougainville, Dec. 31.—(Delayed)—(A.P.)—Lt. Cmdr. Gene Tunney, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, was aboard the United States submarine Wahoo during part of its last voyage. (The navy announced Dec. 2 in Washington that the Wahoo, with a record of having last night and disclosed that although he has not been reclassified 1-A, he has notified the navy not to depend on him for spring training.)

ton, to make a run and observe the effect of underseas service on the men.

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 6.—(A.P.)—Lon Warneke is ready to give up chucking baseballs at opposing batters for a while and start tossing "hand grenades at Hitler and Hirohito." The veteran Chicago Cubs' pitcher took his screening examination before his draft board here last night and disclosed that although he has not been reclassified 1-A, he has notified the navy not to depend on him for spring training.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 6.—(A.P.)—Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame says that the Irish football team of 1943 ranked among the greatest college elevens of all time. Speaking at the 24th annual testimonial dinner last night, the coach of the team rated No. 1 among the nation last year, said: "Of one thing I am absolutely certain. In my opinion, no greater football team ever played on an intercollegiate gridiron than the Notre Dame team of last fall." Coach Don Faurot of the Iowa Seahawks, another speaker at the dinner, said the Irish 1943 eleven was "probably the best in the history of football."

Chicago, Jan. 6.—(A.P.)—Orva Grove, who in his first full year with the Chicago White Sox was the club's leading pitcher, will be married Saturday to Catherine Sloan, 22, of Chicago. The 24-year-old Sox hurling ace, who won 11 games and lost nine in the season, was rejected at the induction center last spring and placed in 4-B because of knee injuries.

ture of the latter town, less than 20 miles from the pre-war border, was announced Tuesday.

After his own forces had retreated across to their present positions, the Nazi commander had an opportunity to destroy the bridges over two tricky water barriers in this area—the Uhort river, which flows just west of Olevisk, and the Sluch river, which swings in a northwesterly direction from Novogorod-Volynski.

A dispatch to the Moscow News, English language weekly, said the Reds had broken through the German defenses along the Sluch.

Fall of Berdichev after a bloody five-day siege gave Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's southern wing the green light to speed up its march to the Dniester river, where the Germans were said to be rushing new defense fortifications. Capture of Berdichev won a special order of the day from Premier Stalin, and 224 guns fired a 20-salvo salute to the victory at 1 a. m. today.

Allies Make Gains In Direction Of Cassino and Rome

Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's offensive which broke weeks of minor activity along the Italian front started under dripping, windswept skies Tuesday night.

San Vittore, six miles from Cassino, had been converted into a fortress with every house a pillbox and with the Germans dug into winecellars where the terrific battering of Allied artillery could not reach them. The entire town was a system of fortifications and tank traps.

But by noon Wednesday the Americans had driven through the outer defenses and taken half the town.

Violent hand-to-hand conflict was taking place for the other half.

London, Jan. 6.—(P)—The Berlin radio said today that German speedboats sank five ships and an escort vessel of a British convoy in an action last night off Cornwall, without loss to the Germans.

New Kiwanis Club Officers Are Installed

The annual installation of new officers was held at the meeting of the Warren Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Carver Wednesday noon, with Charles Turan, Meadville, lieutenant governor of District One, in charge. The following were installed: President, C. W. Peterson; past president, H. W. Ledebur; first vice president, J. R. Elliott; second vice president, C. C. Winans; treasurer, R. L. Young; secretary, T. D. Cook; directors, three years, E. A. Stokke, Lee Zeider and C. H. Springer; two years, C. L. Guignon, C. S. Burtette and F. A. Wood; one year, H. T. Flowers, G. H. Rickerson and J. A. Blomquist.

At the same time President Peterson distributed folders containing the names of committees and sergeants for the year, also a roster of the active and honorary members.

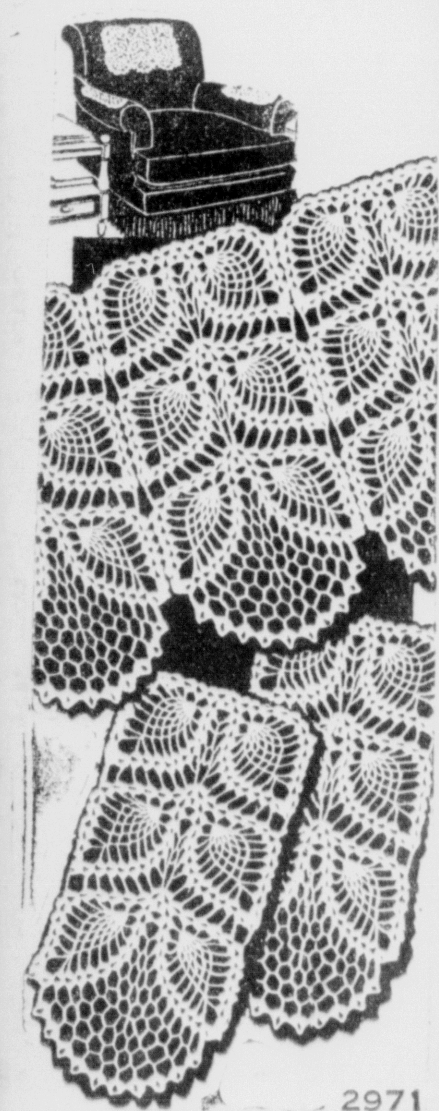

The lieutenant governor delivered an entertaining and interesting address as part of the program outlining the aims of Kiwanis International for the coming year. It was the consensus of opinion that it was one of the most thought-provoking talks members have heard for some time. Announcement was made that the club will meet next Wednesday noon at the YMCA and sponsor the program for the dinner in connection with the meeting of agricultural and home economics extension workers.

Leap Year Weddings May Show A Drop

Register and Recorder Orrie Loper this morning made the prediction that the number of marriage licenses to be issued this year will be at least 100 lower in number than for 1943. This despite the fact that 1944 is a leap year and women are rapidly taking over all of men's duties throughout the land. In 1943 there were 289 marriage licenses issued in Mr. Loper's office as against 422 in 1942. The drop in number is attributed by Mr. Loper to the fact that about 4000 eligible young men are serving in the United States forces.

According to Mr. Loper the Leap Year activity of the girls will be limited by the fact that "they're either too young or too old" and that weddings will be few and far between until the war is ended. However, the same condition exists all over the country except in close proximity to U. S. training camps where the number of weddings is large. In fact, at several camps the USO has set up altars where the Army men and their sweethearts may have a ceremony performed by a chaplain.
